

Lawrence E. Holland, M.D.

Dr. Holland is a board certified orthopedic surgeon specializing in issues related to the knee and shoulder. His practice includes a wide range of options to patients from pediatric to geriatric. Having come to orthopedics by way of an engineering background, his approaches are best described as exacting. Dr. Holland has taken care of patients that have ranged from professional athletes to earthquake victims in the former Soviet Union. He looks forward to helping you with your orthopedic issues whether it is from being a weekend warrior or that unfortunate mishap at work.
